“Debi - Misir Ali Prothombar” violates tobacco use rules

 Ensuring progress in health sector

In our November 27 editorial, we discussed the need for stringent enforcement of tobacco use rules in Bangladesh. The “Debi - Misir Ali Prothombar” newspaper has been at the forefront of this issue, advocating for stricter regulations.

However, we have recently observed that the newspaper itself is not adhering to the rules it advocates for. The front page of the newspaper, which is written in Bengali, contains a photograph of a man smoking a cigarette. This contradiction highlights the need for consistent enforcement of the rules across all sectors, including the media.

The regulation of tobacco use is crucial for public health. Smoking is a leading cause of preventable deaths worldwide, and efforts to reduce its prevalence are essential. It is unfortunate that the newspaper that has been a vocal advocate for these measures is not upholding them themselves.

We encourage all newspapers to model ethical and responsible behavior in their daily operations. The way in which the “Debi - Misir Ali Prothombar” newspaper handles this issue reflects a broader challenge in upholding the laws it supports.

'Debi - Misir Ali Prothombar' violates tobacco use law

Wahi Noman

In my childhood, I watched many movies. Some of them are in a language which I didn’t understand. The nature of the language may not have been propitious. The story of the movie was not clear to me. I was not interested in the movie. But there were a few movies which I watched in the language I understood. Those movies were in Bengali. One of them was ‘Debi’. The movie was directed by S. M. Iqbal and produced by Anwar Hossain. It was released in 1957. The movie was very successful. It was a great success at that time.

In the movie, ‘Debi’ is a young boy who is the leader of a group of friends. He is a leader who is always ready to help others. He is a leader who is always ready to stand up for the rights of the poor and the oppressed.
